The indolence of the Chicago packers has not lowered the price of beef.

Sixteen cents a day is good wages for skilled labor in Japan. A few years ago it was six cents.

With the talk of building a mansion for the Governor there comes a boom in Tallahassee real estate.

The Russian soldiers are said to have plenty of provisions, but they just ain't got no time to stop and eat.

If peace should be declared now in the Far East, the newspaper paragraphers would have a lot of dead stock on hand.

The only reason some people would never be president of the United States is that they would not stand out of doors on a raw day in March and be inaugurated.

Should the State establish a printing office it might be a good idea to publish our own school books, which would also furnish more work for such an institution and let the State make the profit.

The Southern Cotton Association was organized, it was supposed, to protect the growers against the tricks of the gamblers, but with Dan J. Sully's name as president, it will be looked on with suspicion.

The Lakeland News thinks the town had better wait a while before they launch out a daily paper. And The News man knows a thing or two about publishing papers, for he sends out a weekly that is certainly a credit to the town.

Major George Butler having resigned as editor of The Lake Butler Star, Avery G. Powell has again assumed the quill and tripod and promises to do all in his power to give the people of Bradford county the best he has in store. Major Butler will assume charge of the job printing, and The Star will twinkle just the same, and we hope it will have no clouds to obstruct its rays shining where all can see.

Dr. Lewellys Franklin Barker of the University of Chicago has been chosen by the trustees of Johns Hopkins University to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. William Osler. Dr. Osler, who, as professor of medicine in the great Baltimore institution, was held to be at the head of his profession in America, achieved much popular prominence recently through utterances credited to him advocating the chloroforming of men over 60 years of age.

The general activity manifested in every portion of the State is proof of the greatness of Florida. And when the full capacity of her resources are known, it will be proven that no one article from her diversified products can seriously cripple her progress and prosperity. If oranges fail, we have tomatoes; if tomatoes should be ruined the potato crop is still with us; and we might go along down the line of various crops and still find a plenty to divert a famine unless we had a complete upheaval of the whole State.

ONLY BLUSTER.

Someone made a remark about fooling the people, etc., which will no doubt prove literally true before many years. There has been a great deal of bluster and bluff about a certain gentleman who fills a most high place in the affairs of this government at Washington, when not romping with the festive cowboy, and it has seemed to come to naught in so far as the people have experienced any relaxation from the iron hand of the trusts and monopolies up to date, and there is growing a certain restlessness that will not be put off with promises much longer.

Mr. Roosevelt may be sincere, but he will find ere long that the people also are as dead in earnest as Mr. Roosevelt is, and it is plain to be seen that so far he has been standing them off with only promises that are sure to avail nothing, for even if he has the Senate with him the House is body and breeches against anything that will do the least to help the people to one jot or tittle of relief.

The only way relief can be hoped for is through the votes of the people, and the recent city election in Chicago may be taken as indication of the direction of the breeze which is being fanned up to a cyclone by the usurpation of the rights of the people. The election being in an off year, when the Republican machine is not putting up big money for votes, shows the strength of the Democratic party at its normal stage, and if the general elections were conducted on the same principle, the result might be a Democratic triumph.

It will lead to something, this continuation of broken promises and long-drawn-out trials resulting in acquittal of the guilty trusts, and it we can only unite on a sound principle and stand by the people, there will be a rout of the man of promises that he never dreamed he would fulfill.

Discussing the maintenance of the higher school of learning Governor Broward in his message says: "I therefore recommend that such a thorough and systematic reorganization of these schools be provided for as will accomplish, as nearly as possible under the existing conditions, the end outlined above, and that the funds out of which they will be supported be raised by a specific levy for that purpose, after a careful estimate of their respective needs, and that they be no longer dependent upon the general revenue fund for their support. It is the constant purpose of each State administration to reduce the levy for general revenue purposes to that point where the expenditures made and amount raised shall be equal; which condition of affairs, if attained, would leave no balance in the treasury for the maintenance of these higher institutions of learning."

A correspondent to The Times-Union favors the erection of a State prison, where convicts could be learned a trade. There are few prisons where convicts are learned a trade these days, but there are many where they have more of the comforts and pleasures than the poor, honest workmen who toil day by day to support their families. In some of the State prisons the inmates have opera furnished by the authorities and other amusements, and the writer remembers an instance where a prisoner requested the judge before whom he was sentenced to send him to Jackson, if he would, as "they had a baseball team there and he was fond of the game."

Some women are unable to play on any instrument except the ear-drum, and they often make discords where harmony would otherwise be found.

Something Lacking.
"I can shave myself as well as any barber."
"Ah, but you can't talk to yourself while you're doing it!"

Nothing raises the price of a blessing like its removal.—Moore.

BOATING ON THE NILE.

The Best Pilots Run Aground Two or Three Times a Day.

Navigation on the Nile is not so complicated a matter as upon the north Atlantic, writes Alonzo Clarke Robinson in Outing. To run at full speed upon a sand bar is an occurrence of such frequency as hardly to elicit a comment from the passengers. The crew take more interest because they are obliged to push the boat off again with poles, and this entails a great amount of shouting and some work. The Nile below the first cataract is a fairly broad, muddy river, flowing between deposited banks varying from six to eight to twenty to thirty feet in height. Its surface is interrupted everywhere by sand spits and islands upon which are to be seen thousands of birds. The channel, if such it can be called, winds from one side to the other and changes completely with every flood; hence even the best pilots run aground two or three times a day. It is, of course, impossible to proceed at night, and each day's voyage comes to an end wherever darkness happens to overtake one. The boat's nose is simply run plump on the bank, two men leap out and drive stakes to which to make fast, and there you are for the night. A very simple and effective method, without any ostentation and requiring very little knowledge of mathematics; it has also the advantage of variety. Sometimes one finds oneself alone beneath the wonderful Egyptian moon lighting up the river, the distant cliffs and the silent, empty plain, or perhaps one stops near some little native village, in which case the bank is lined with silent, curious figures, who crouch for hours wrapped in their white cloth coverings. Once we tied up beside a lonely brick kiln. The sight was a weird one. The red flare of the furnace, fed with sugar cane, cast intermittent flashes of light into the night, in and out of which moved black half naked natives, while overhead was the cloudless, star lit sky of Egypt.

Old Time Railway Travel.
Third class passenger coaches in England used to be coupled on next to the engine. The travelers came in for terrible treatment when any accident occurred. At times the engine was driven tender first, in which case frozen hands could be warmed at its smokestack. The passengers were packed, seventy of them, into a truck eighteen feet in length by seven and a half in width. There was no roof and not, as a rule, proper protection at the sides.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.
